For more than 20 years, Cameron Getto has litigated complex cases involving professional negligence, products liability, nursing homes, assisted living, pharmaceuticals, complex torts, employment issues, and commercial disputes, representing an array of clients that include individuals, professionals, non-profits, businesses, and corporations. Cam honors the trust that they've placed in him by striving to achieve the best possible results.

Many of the matters Cam handles involve critical medical, engineering, and scientific issues. He prides himself on his ability to process and translate that information for judges and juries at trial and on appeal. Cam has also developed a reputation for fairness, civility, and professionalism that has helped him successfully fight for a wide variety of clients in multiple forums. Because he is familiar with the complex legal and regulatory frameworks in which his human services and professional clients operate, Cam is able to help them navigate the court system to obtain the best possible result, whether it be a summary dismissal, a jury verdict, or a favorable settlement.

Cam also gives back to his profession by sharing insights on the legal issues he's encountered. He has been published numerous times and has presented at Grand Rounds at Henry Ford Hospital and at Wayne State's Applebaum College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences. He is a devoted resident of the Huron Valley community, serving in current and past leadership positions with Ann Arbor Academy, the Ypsilanti Board of Education, and the Ypsilanti Symphony Orchestra.

Before becoming a lawyer, Cam earned a degree in Music Composition from Oberlin College and worked in the music industry. When he's not in the office or spending time with his family, he still continues to write songs and records them in his home studio.
