

Anastasios "Ty" Kiafoulis creates effective defense strategies for clients by conducting meticulous legal analysis and fostering collaborative client relationships, resulting in tailored solutions that align with client goals.

Ty Kiafoulis brings a unique blend of intellectual curiosity and practical experience to Zausmer. His journey in law began with a fascination with history and politics, which naturally evolved into a legal career. Ty's education at Boston College Law School, coupled with a Political Science degree from the University of Michigan, laid a strong foundation for his comprehensive understanding of legal principles and their application to real-world scenarios.

Ty started his legal career in Boston in areas including products liability, insurance defense, personal injury, and construction defects. His adeptness at drafting motions, particularly motions for summary judgment, led to several dispositive successes. Ty also advised clients on compliance issues in the construction materials industry, demonstrating his capacity to offer comprehensive legal advice. A significant milestone in Ty's career was his contribution to an amicus brief submitted to the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, which influenced a landmark decision on causation involving multiple tortfeasors.

At Zausmer, Ty's approach is deeply client-centric, focusing on understanding client needs and crafting defense strategies that align with their objectives. His attention to detail and quick learning ability enable him to uncover unique solutions, ensuring clients are well-represented.

Ty's personal interests include golf, working out, and hiking with his Labrador Retriever. Ty and his fiancé foster dogs and actively support animal shelters. As a dedicated University of Michigan sports fan, Ty maintains a strong connection to his alma mater, reflecting his loyalty and team spirit.
